HISTORY

Southeast Christian School was established as Christian Way School in 1977 at Gateway Christian Church in Aurora, Colorado. Richard Achenbach, or “Mr. A” as he was affectionately known, was the founding principal. The school was supported by five Denver area Christian churches and started with less than 50 students.

Today, we are an independent school with a student body flourishing with nearly 300 preschool through 8th grade students! We appreciate the past and present support of Southeast Christian Church where we have been housed for over 17 years.

STAFF AT SOUTHEAST

For more than 40 years the strength of the school has been our solid faculty, with an average tenure of more than 10 years! Besides parents, teachers are often the most influential adults in the life of a child. Southeast is blessed by staff members who not only teach, but act daily in many other capacities to support and guide students. These actions reflect the commitment our entire faculty has to being a positive role model for students; focusing on character development alongside academics. Many of our faculty members hold advanced degrees in a variety of disciplines. K-8 teachers are required to pursue ACSI certification in addition to their Colorado state license.

MOTTO: “Soli Deo Gloria” - Glory to God alone

One of the five “solas” born out of the Protestant Reformation, soli deo gloria became a central rallying cry of the Reformers. It literally translates “for the glory of God alone.” Composer, J.S. Bach was known to sign his compositions with his name and the initials “S.D.G.” (soli deo Gloria).

Philosophically, this phrase points us to the reality that we are called to surrender all aspects of our life to the domain and glory of God. This encompasses knowing and functioning from a biblical worldview as well as seeing all content/competency areas through this lens. If we, as an educational institution, live “soli deo gloria” then math is not just numbers and patterns. Math, instead, becomes one discipline (amongst many) which, mastered, points to the glory of God alone. Likewise, music is not just learning to sing or recognizing tone, pitch, or terminology. As Bach declared, “the aim and final end of all music should be none other than the glory of God and the refreshment of the soul.”

When soli deo gloria is applied to one’s life, every facet of life (or an entire institution) should be dynamically different. The answer to every question can be found in this one motto. Why do we do what we do? Simply... for the glory of God alone!

SOUTHEAST CHRISTIAN SCHOOL BOARD

Note from the Chair

It is both an honor and privilege to serve on a school board. A Christian board of education carries an extra charge of humility and service to His Kingdom. Our most important responsibility is working with students, families, staff, school leaders, church leaders, businesses, and the community to ensure the best Christian education for each child attending Southeast Christian School.

Among the board's duties we are to plan, implement, and revise By-laws, policies, procedures, and strategic plans on a continuous basis. With input from parents, staff, faculty, and board we began looking at new areas of focus for our plan. The areas identified and later explained in this document are: Christ the center, partnerships, curriculum and academics, programs and technology, safety and security, service and faith, and financial accountability.

While the school board is the force behind the strategic plan, it is the Head of School and staff that work closely together and tirelessly to execute the actions for the strategic plan to succeed. Every year a new action plan is developed to address each area of the strategic plan. The action plan is drawn by our vision, driven by our mission, guided by our values, led by our focus areas, defined by our end-state, and informed by our message.

Increasing academic achievement with a Christian Worldview is the primary goal of the Southeast Christian School board. We continue to look at best practices based on data and research to educate the whole child to navigate as a Christian in a post-Christian world.
